8 Attorneys for Plaintiff

10 IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
11 FOR THE NORTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA
12 SAN JOSE DIVISION

13 UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,

14 } No. CR-10-00465 JF

15 v. }
16 LITA DELARA,
a/k/a Lita Delara Uyenco

17 } STIPULATED INTERIM
Defendant. } PROTECTIVE ORDER
AS MODIFIED BY THE COURT

18 WHEREAS during the course of discovery in the above-captioned criminal case, the

19 United States may produce or otherwise make available mortgage related documents and other 20 items containing information that contains the private information of others, including social 21 security numbers, dates of birth, and financial information that is intended to be kept 22 confidential; and

23 WHEREAS the United States and defendant Lita Delara ("defendant") deem it 24 appropriate for the purpose of facilitating pretrial negotiations and to provide for the protection 25 of such information without agreeing that the specific information is in fact intended to be kept 26 confidential, and with the further understanding that nothing in this stipulated protective order 27

PROTECTIVE ORDER

1 creates any presumption regarding whether the specific information is intended to be kept 2 confidential, and lastly preserving defendant's right to challenge any such designation at a later 3 time;

4 IT IS HEREBY STIPULATED AND AGREED by and between the United States and 5 defendant and his counsel, that the following definitions and procedures will govern the 6 designation and handling of material and other information produced by the United States during 7 pretrial negotiations, while reserving the question of how such material and information should 8 be handled at trial, and during pre- or post-trial hearings for a future time.

9 1. Definitions:

10 a. "Confidential Material" shall mean information that the Government contends has 11 information therein intended to be kept confidential, i.e., the information deemed confidential
12 pursuant to Federal Rule of Criminal Procedure 49.1, i.e., personal information of mortgagees 13 including their social security number or tax payer identification number, date of birth, names of 14 minors, financial account numbers, and home addresses, as well as mortgagees' salary/income 15 information, and bank and financial records.

16 b. "Discovery Material" shall mean all materials disclosed by the United States during 17 discovery in this case as part of individual mortgagee's files, including documents maintained by 18 the mortgage broker and banks.

19 2. The United States may designate Discovery Material as Confidential Material to the extent
20 that it believes in good faith that the information or material is or may be Confidential Material 21 as defined in paragraph 1(a) above.

Unless otherwise ordered by the Court,
22 3. Discovery Material designated as "CONFIDENTIAL" shall be retained by defendant's counsel in the above-captioned cases and furnished, at this time, to no one other than defendant's counsel in the above-captioned cases, defendant, the staff supporting counsel in the 23 above-captioned cases such as interpreters, paralegal assistants, and secretarial, stenographic, and 24 clerical employees who are working on this case under the direction of defendant's counsel and 25 to whom it is necessary that the materials be disclosed for purposes of the defense of this case. In 26

1 the event that defendant or his counsel wishes to consult an expert regarding these materials, the 2 procedure for doing so is addressed in paragraph 8 of this agreement. All such material shall be 3 kept in the offices of defendant's counsel and neither this material nor any copies of this material
 4 shall leave that office for any purpose except submission in camera to the Court. However, 5 should defendant be incarcerated before the resolution of this indictment, his counsel may bring 6 the designated confidential material to the facility in which he is incarcerated to assist in the 7 defendant's preparation but shall not leave any such confidential material with the defendant. All 8 such material shall be used solely for the purpose of conducting pre-trial, trial, and appellate 9 proceedings in this case and for no other purpose whatsoever. All motions which contain any of 10 the confidential material and which are filed with the Court shall be filed and kept under seal
 11 until further order of the Court or the confidential information therein redacted. Confidential
 12 Material filed under seal shall be filed with the Clerk of the Court in sealed envelopes or boxes 13 prominently marked with the caption of this case and the notation:

14 "TO BE FILED UNDER SEAL"

15 Contains Confidential Material

(pursuant to the standards and procedures set forth in Criminal Local Rule 55-1(b),
 Civil Local Rule 79-5, and General Order

16 To Be Opened Only As Directed By The Court

17 4. The recipient of any Confidential Material that is provided under this Stipulated Interim 18 Protective Order shall keep such information in a manner reasonably intended to preserve and 19 maintain the confidentiality of the information and shall not disclose such information to any 20 individuals except as authorized by this Stipulated Interim Protective Order.

21 5. Within 30 days of the later of the expiration of the deadline to file an appeal or the 22 exhaustion of an appeal, defendant and his counsel agree to the return of all Confidential
 23 Material to the United States, except as directed by the Court.

24 6. Nothing herein shall prevent a defendant from using the Confidential Material or from 25 referring to, quoting, or reciting from any information contained in such Confidential Material in 26 connection with pleadings or motions filed in this case, provided that such materials be filed
 27 under seal and/or submitted to the Court for in camera inspection. The use of Confidential

1 and after meeting and 2 conferring in good faith (in 3 voice to voice dialogue)

4 Material at trial or pre- or post-trial hearing will be resolved at or before the time of the trial or 5 hearing.

6 7. Should defendant dispute the propriety of any designation of Discovery Material as 7 Confidential Material, his counsel shall notify the United States in writing. Such notice shall 8 state counsel's position with regard to the matter in issue. Within seven business days from 9 receiving the notice, the United States shall respond to the notice in writing. If, after this 10 exchange of correspondence, defendant and the United States cannot resolve their dispute, they 11 may apply to the Court to do so. During the pendency of the dispute and any court resolution 12 thereof, including an appeal of the Court's decision on such motion, the discovery material shall 13 be deemed "CONFIDENTIAL" as designated and shall be covered by the provisions of this 14 Stipulated Interim Protective Order. The parties understand that, as this Stipulated Interim 15 Protective Order is primarily intended to facilitate pretrial negotiations, the defendant and his 16 counsel may choose not to formally challenge the Government's designation of certain material 17 as confidential at this stage in the proceedings. Such a failure to challenge the confidentiality of information does not constitute a waiver on the part of a defendant to challenge that information's confidentiality.

18 8. At such time as the defendant retains an expert or experts to assist in the review of the 19 Confidential Material, each such person shall execute an Acknowledgment which shall then be 20 submitted to the Court ex parte and in camera by the defendant. The defendant shall not be 21 required to provide said Acknowledgment, or the identity of the expert who signed it, to the 22 United States, unless so ordered by the Court. The United States retains the right to request that 23 the Court authorize such disclosure. Nothing in this paragraph relieves a defendant of the 24 discovery obligations contained in Fed. R. Crim. P. 16 (b)(1)(C), nor does the United States
25 waive any rights thereunder by entering into this stipulation. By signing and agreeing to the terms 26 of this Stipulated Interim Protective Order, no person shall be deemed to have conceded that any 27 material has been properly designated as confidential.

10-465

1 9. Nothing in this order shall preclude the United States or defendant from applying to the 2 Court for further relief or modification. The parties agreement to enter into this Stipulated
3 Interim Protective Order at his time is for the purpose of pretrial negotiations is not a concession
4 by a defendant that the terms contained herein would be appropriate should the case proceed 5 beyond that stage.

6 10. Willful violation of this Stipulated Interim Protective Order may be punishable by 7 contempt of court, whatever other sanction the Court deems just, or any other sanctions or 8 combination of sanctions which are legally available.
